MARKET REPORT

Your definitive guide to real estate activity, pricing trends, and market intelligence within one of Boca Raton's most coveted waterfront addresses.

A TRUSTED PARTNERSHIP FOR OUR COMMUNITY

Daniel Schultz is pleased to introduce Matt Gelling as his partner in serving the Yacht & Racquet Club of Boca Raton community. Together, their focus remains aligned with the interests of residents: protecting property values, strengthening future comparable sales, and providing informed guidance within one of Boca Raton's most unique waterfront communities.

DANIEL SCHULTZ

A resident of YARCOBR and Realtor with The Keyes Company, Daniel has developed a reputation for his hyper-local knowledge of the community and his commitment to preserving and enhancing property values. Through his market reports, community involvement, and real estate expertise, Daniel strives to help residents make informed decisions while promoting the long-term success of the community.

MATT GELLING

Originally from New York, Matt moved to Florida with his family and attended Florida Atlantic University. He built a successful leadership career with Circuit City and Apple, managing large teams and operations before transitioning into real estate. As a second-generation Realtor with more than 35 years of family involvement in the industry, Matt brings strong negotiation skills, marketing expertise, and a client-first approach to every transaction.

FEATURED MARKET INSIGHT

Inventory remains at 8 active listings, but the composition of available properties has changed. A new $999,000 listing in Building A brings that building to two active listings, while Building G now has two. The average asking price increased to approximately $771,250, while average asking price per square foot rose to approximately $649.

PRICING MATTERS

Pricing significantly above recent comparable sales can contribute to extended marketing times. F604, for example, is currently offered at $766/SF—approximately 45% above the $527/SF average for YARCOBR condominium sales over the past 12 months—and has remained on the market for more than 255 days. Prolonged listings can also affect market perception, as buyers and their agents may question why properties within a community are taking longer to sell.

KEY TAKEAWAYS

The previous report showed 15 closed sales during the trailing 12 months. The current MLS data shows 18, a 20% increase in the number of transactions represented in the rolling 12-month period.

The 18 closed sales ranged from $365,000 to $1,795,000, illustrating the wide range of values within YARCOBR based on property type, building, condition, view and level of renovation.

MARKET COMMENTARY

1. INVENTORY REMAINS CONTROLLED

YARCOBR currently has just 8 active listings, with available inventory concentrated in Buildings A, F and G. Buildings E and I currently have no units listed for sale, nor are there any townhomes available. Limited inventory remains an important factor supporting values within the community.

2. YARCOBR VS SAN REMO

A comparison with neighboring San Remo provides an interesting perspective on YARCOBR values. Over the past 12 months, YARCOBR condominiums sold for an average of $527 per square foot, compared with $469 at San Remo, a premium of approximately 12%. YARCOBR properties also sold somewhat faster, averaging 118 days on market compared with 132 days at San Remo.

While YARCOBR commands the higher values, the relatively modest price-per-square-foot premium is noteworthy given the breadth of amenities and waterfront lifestyle our community offers. It raises an important question: Is the market fully recognizing YARCOBR's value?

3. CLOSED-SALE PRICING HAS ALSO IMPROVED

Across the trailing 12 months, 18 properties closed at an average price of approximately $760,667. Excluding the townhome sale, YARCOBR condominiums averaged approximately $699,824, or $527 per square foot. These figures are meaningfully higher than the averages reported in our previous edition and demonstrate the impact that several stronger recent transactions are having on community comparable values.

4. PRICING AND PRESENTATION STILL MATTER

The average days on market for closed transactions increased to approximately 118 days, while current listings average approximately 111 days on market. The wide range in individual marketing times—from just a few days to more than a year—continues to demonstrate that condition, view, renovation quality, and realistic pricing can materially affect how quickly a property sells.

CLOSING THOUGHT

YARCOBR continues to offer a rare combination of private beach access, marina, extensive amenities, and a true waterfront lifestyle. Our objective with these monthly reports is to provide residents with transparent, hyper-local information that helps them better understand current market conditions and the value of their investment.
